15 RELEASED FROM HOSPITAL

5 STILL RECEIVING CARE

MACKENZIE · UPDATED NOV. 5

15 RELEASED, 5 STILL IN HOSPITAL AFTER HIGHWAY 39 CRASH

Northern Health says 15 of the 20 people treated after Wednesday's shuttle crash south of Mackenzie have been released. Five remain in care. Four are still being treated locally and one was airlifted to another facility in the province. No deaths have been reported.

B.C. Emergency Health Services said six air ambulances and six ground ambulances treated and moved 20 patients with injuries ranging from minor to serious. One patient left the scene by air in serious condition. Six went by ground and were later flown. Thirteen stable patients rode a bus with advanced care paramedics.

A northbound white shuttle left Highway 39 and ended in a ditch about four kilometres south of Mackenzie shortly after 9 a.m. Wednesday. Police were called about 9:10 a.m. B.C. Highway Patrol Sgt. Michael McLaughlin said the scene was chaotic. The cause is unclear. Nothing has been ruled out and no arrests have been made.

Northern Health declared Code Orange at Mackenzie and District Hospital and at UHNBC in Prince George. Both codes have been lifted. WorkSafeBC is investigating alongside RCMP. Australia-based data centre company Iren said the bus was chartered by one of its contractors. Mackenzie Secondary said it was not a school bus. B.C. Highway Patrol wants dash-camera video and witnesses. Call Prince George Highway Patrol at 250-649-4004 and quote file (3100) 2026-956.

PROVINCE

THE REST OF B.C. IS FINALLY ON PEACE TIME

As of Sunday, Nov. 1, most of B.C. stayed on year-round Pacific time, a permanent UTC-7 standard. The northeast has run that clock for decades. Winter calls from Fort St. John to Victoria now line up the same way they do in July.

Alberta still changes clocks, so Grande Prairie matches Dawson Creek all winter and jumps ahead in March. Update your phone and check calendar apps for the first few weeks while booking systems catch up.

ELECTIONS BC · FINAL COUNT STARTS FRIDAY

PEACE SEATS STAY CONSERVATIVE AS FINAL COUNT BEGINS

Elections BC begins counting mail-in, absentee and assisted telephone ballots Friday, Nov. 6, running through Nov. 10. Nobody in the northeast expects a flip. Both Peace ridings went B.C. Conservative by wide margins on Oct. 24, and the province's first change of government in nine years is now on a fixed timeline.

In Peace River North, which takes in Fort St. John, Taylor, Hudson's Hope and the Northern Rockies, newcomer Curtis Whitford took 8,957 votes, or 85.7 per cent, in the initial count. Independent incumbent Jordan Kealy had 1,489. In Peace River South, covering Dawson Creek, Chetwynd, Tumbler Ridge and Pouce Coupe, Larry Neufeld won a second term with 6,070 votes, about 77.7 per cent.

Whitford, born and raised in Fort St. John and from the oil and gas industry, told supporters at the Legion he would represent everyone, "whether you voted for me or not." Conservative MLAs swear in Nov. 19. Premier-designate Lorne Doerkson swears in cabinet Nov. 20. For the first time in years both Peace MLAs sit on the government side, putting resource permitting, rural ER staffing and Highway 97 and 29 upkeep inside the caucus room. Cabinet is the next watch. Northern voters will look for anyone from north of Prince George at the table.

Mail ballots and assisted telephone votes can still move a tight riding. These two Peace seats are not tight. The practical story is who sits at the cabinet table for rural health, forestry and highway maintenance once Doerkson takes the oath. Whitford and Neufeld both campaigned on jobs and permitting. Final-count tallies land by Nov. 10, then the focus shifts to who gets a seat in the room.

TREATY 8

BLUEBERRY RIVER WILL DEAL DIRECTLY ON DRIPA

Blueberry River First Nations congratulated Doerkson and both Peace MLAs, and said it is ready to work with Victoria while flagging concern about a DRIPA repeal. "Restoring the land and building a strong economic future must go hand in hand," the Nation said. It will engage directly to make its priorities clear.

The 2023 Implementation Agreement still shapes forestry and oil and gas on a large North Peace land base. Repealing DRIPA does not, on its own, cancel that agreement. UNBC's Daniel Sims said repeal would at minimum stop work aligning B.C. laws with the UN declaration.

OTTAWA

ZIMMER BACKS TANKER-BAN REPEAL

MP Bob Zimmer voted for Bill C-264 to lift large tanker restrictions off B.C.'s north coast. The bill failed at second reading. He also pressed the government over a CRA security contract that went to a U.S. firm instead of the Commissionaires, who employ many veterans.

That motion failed 163 to 155 on Nov. 3. On Nov. 4 he backed an industrial heat recovery tax credit that was also defeated. The tanker ban matters here because every barrel that cannot reach tidewater sells at a discount or stays in the ground.

DOERKSON: MIDTERMS WILL NOT END THE TRADE WAR SOON

The premier-designate said Wednesday he does not expect a quick end to the U.S. trade fight, even after Democrats took both houses of Congress. His focus is taking over Nov. 20, protecting local industry and building partnerships with anyone who wants to do business with B.C.

American liquor stays off provincial liquor store shelves for now. Softwood duties hit mill towns from Mackenzie to Chetwynd. Faster permits and a clear open-for-business message are things Victoria still controls, whatever happens in Washington.

303 SPOILED BALLOTS ARE A MESSAGE. THE FIX IS MORE CHOICE

Peace River North voters made their choice clear on Oct. 24. Curtis Whitford won about 85 per cent. That is a mandate.

But CBC News reported 303 rejected ballots, 2.82 per cent of votes cast. In 2024 there were 18. UNBC political scientist Jason Morris told CBC it looked more like a message than a mistake. Peace River North was the only B.C. riding where neither the NDP nor the Greens ran.

Those 303 people showed up. They did not stay home. The fix is not to scold anyone. The fix is competition. A strong riding is one where every party has to earn votes, including the winner.

Whitford won fair and square and has said he will represent everyone. We take him at his word. Next time, more names on the ballot would be good for everyone, the winner included.

NIGHT SKY

AURORA WATCH FOR THE PEACE

Dark skies north of Fort St. John still give the best shot. Beatton Provincial Park and the Charlie Lake shoreline open a clear northern view. Dawson Creek watchers use farmland north of Mile Zero and Highway 97 pullouts with a north horizon. Hudson's Hope looks north from quieter valley roads. Fort Nelson has some of the darkest sky in the booklet towns. Stay on public pullouts only.

Near 56°N, a Kp of 3 can put a glow low on the northern horizon. A Kp of 5 or more can bring lights overhead. Check spaceweather.gc.ca and the NOAA Space Weather Prediction Center before you drive out. Dress for standing still, tell someone your route, and pack out what you pack in.

NOTE SAMPLE guidance, not a live alert. Confirm the outlook the night you go.

FORT ST. JOHN

CO-OP PUTS ITS NAME ON THE SPORT CENTRE FOR $1.5 MILLION

The City of Fort St. John announced Oct. 28 that the Pomeroy Sport Centre is now the Co-op Community Centre under a 15-year naming deal with Fort St. John Co-op worth $1.5 million. City officials say the partnership helps cover facility costs without leaning harder on the tax base.

The deal replaces Pomeroy Lodging's expired naming contract. Arena users will see new Co-op branding on the building while programs and ice bookings stay with the city.

FORT NELSON

TOWN STUDIES ITS OWN CLINIC FOR THE DOCTOR SHORTAGE

The Northern Rockies Regional Municipality is moving ahead with Phase 2 of a business case for a town-owned Northern Rockies Health Partnership Clinic. Fort Nelson is not waiting on Victoria to fix local access to doctors.

CJDC-TV and CBC News reported the Oct. 22 announcement. A municipal clinic would sit beside existing recruitment work and give the north a facility it can staff and schedule on local terms.

HUDSON'S HOPE

EMERGENCY ROOM CLOSES AGAIN ON STAFFING GAPS

Northern Health listed another Hudson's Hope ER diversion in late October, set to reopen 8:30 a.m. Monday, Nov. 2. Energeticcity.ca reported the Oct. 30 notice. Earlier diversions hit Oct. 13 and ended Oct. 21, CJDC-TV reported.

Mayor Travous Quibell told My Peace Region Now the notices weigh on families who need emergency care close to home. The district is pushing Northern Health on nurse-practitioner and virtual-care options while physician recruitment continues.

If the ER is on diversion, call 911 for life-threatening emergencies. Check Northern Health's ER status before you drive. Fort St. John Hospital and Dawson Creek Emergency are the usual backups.

ENERGY

COPPER THIEVES HIT IDLE PEACE GAS SITES

Thieves are stripping copper from idle gas sites around Tumbler Ridge, Chetwynd and Fort St. John. One producer put losses at $4 million to $5 million. Mark McDermott, an operations superintendent with a smaller northeast gas producer, told CJDC-TV on Oct. 30 that inactive facilities are easy targets.

Producers want scrap yards pressed harder on where metal comes from. Idle sites still hold wire, valves and equipment worth stealing when copper prices climb.

BIG GAMES RIGHT NOW

GTA VI · FORTNITE · BLACK OPS 7 · ROBLOX · MINECRAFT · SWITCH 2

GTA VI launches Nov. 19, 2026 on PS5 and Xbox. ESRB M 17+. Talk before launch day. Fortnite Treasure Hunters mini-season is live (ESRB T). Cap spend in Epic parental controls. Chapter 8 is reported for Nov. 28. Black Ops 7 out since Nov. 14, 2025 (ESRB M 17+). Limit voice chat. Roblox stays always on. Link a parent account, set spend caps and age-check chat. Minecraft still tops Twitch watch lists (ESRB E10+). Use Microsoft Family Safety. Nintendo Switch 2 with Mario Kart World is the easy family race night (Mario Kart is ESRB E).

Rockstar · Epic · Activision · Roblox · Microsoft · Nintendo · ESRB · Piper Sandler · TwitchTracker. Sample brief.

SLANG DECODER

Cooked current In big trouble or finished. Example: forgot the test, I am cooked.

Lock in current Focus hard on a task. Example: exams tomorrow, time to lock in.

Rizz current Charm or flirting skill. Example: that kid has rizz.

Cap / no cap current Lie, or "no lie." Example: no cap, the homework took an hour.

Merriam-Webster · BBC CBBC · Playpit

HOW TO ASK ABOUT IT

Skip "what is cooked." Try "who do you play with after school" and "does anyone ask you to move the chat."

Ask what they would do if a stranger offered free V-Bucks or a gift link. One calm question beats a lecture.

Listen first. End with "I am glad you told me." Keep the talk under five minutes the first time so they come back.

Common Sense Media · Cybertip.ca

APPS TEENS USE · AGE FLOORS AND ONE SAFETY NOTE

YouTube 13+ for a full account. Prefer a supervised account. YouTube Kids only for younger siblings.

TikTok 13+. Turn on Family Pairing and a daily screen-time limit.

Instagram 13+. Teen Accounts start private. Supervision shows contacts, not DMs.

Snapchat 13+. Family Center shows friends, not message text.

Discord 13+. Turn on Family Center. Not a first app for under-13s.

Roblox Any age with a parent account. Cap spend and lock chat age settings.

Console parties Xbox / PlayStation. Use family accounts and disable open multiplayer with strangers.

Switch 2 / Mario Kart Easy family race night. Watch online spend on the console. Mario Kart World is ESRB E.

SCREEN-TIME SETTINGS TO CHECK THIS WEEK

- Turn on a nightly downtime window on phone and tablet accounts
- Cap App Store / Google Play and console spend to a weekly limit you both know
- Review who can message them on Discord, Snapchat and Roblox
- Keep bedroom chargers downstairs on school nights
- Ask which game voice chat stays on after 9 p.m.
- Require approval for new app installs on their device
- Check YouTube Restricted Mode and TikTok Family Pairing together
- Set a shared rule for phones at the dinner table

PROTECT YOUR KIDS SAMPLE

LOCK DOWN ROBLOX CHAT AND SPENDING

Most Roblox trouble starts in open chat or surprise purchases. Open the parent account linked to the child's profile. Set who can chat to friends or no one, not everyone. Turn on spending controls and set a weekly cap before the next play session.

Tell the child that strangers in a game are still strangers. If anyone asks to move the chat to Discord, Snapchat or a phone number, the answer is no and a parent hears about it. Practise the line once before the next play session so it sticks.

Do this today: Open Roblox parental controls, set chat to Friends or Off, and set a spend cap.

Also this week

Spot Fortnite and V-Bucks scams
Fake gift sites and free V-Bucks links are common in game chat. Ask which gift links they have seen this week. Bookmark only the official Epic or console store.

Stranger chat rules that stick
No sharing full name, school, address or phone. No meeting anyone from online. No moving a chat to a private app without telling a parent. Write the three rules on a fridge card.

Privacy settings on the apps they use
Default settings favour sharing. Change them once, then check monthly. Pick the one app they use most and finish its family or teen safety setup together.
